

Love in Psychiatry

Fifth International Congress for True Psychotherapy, Psycholytic Therapy and Alternative Psychiatry

25th – 27th June 2021, Lüsslingen, CH

Alternative Psychiatry

Alternative psychiatry is a human approach to psychiatry, an approach in which the dignity, the freedom and uniqueness of human beings are respected.

The emphasis here is not on regulation and social adaptation for those who are sick, but rather on a comprehensive view of the whole problem.

We attempt to undertake a treatment which can be integrated as far as possible within the social and family network, instead of isolating the patients.

Love in Psychiatry

The most important instruments of therapy, which make possible the best treatment and best solution for every situation, are compassion and developing a relationship. What determines this procedure are not fear and security measures, but rather the insight, that ultimately, the responsibility for his life rests with the patient himself, and that love and a loving environment are the only things that can really support him.
